Rationale

Nagle College is a Catholic community in the spirit and tradition of Nano Nagle and St John Bosco. The College places great emphasis on Gospel values and respect for persons. In a Christian community all members (staff, pupils and parents) have the right and expectation to be treated equitably and justly.

Foundational to the nature of pastoral care in Catholic schools is the belief that each person is created in the image and likeness of God, with the inherent dignity that this implies, and all are created as social beings, with the mutual rights, obligations and needs that this implies.

Nagle College values the diversity of the school community and respects the differences of individual employees and students, recognising that each person has unique talents and skills. Nagle College believes that all staff and students are entitled to an environment in which they can enjoy their relationships with colleagues, teachers and fellow students free from unwanted bullying and harassment of any kind.

Bullying and harassment are behaviours that jeopardise the rights and well-beings of others. Nagle College aims to be free from bullying, harassment, discrimination and violence. This is both a moral and legal obligation. These behaviours are unacceptable at the College.

Scripture

‘All members may be concerned for one another. If one member suffers, all members suffer: if one member is honoured, all members share this joy. You then are the body of Christ.’
(I Corinthians 12:25-27)

Vision

“I have come that they may have life, and have it to the full.” John 10:10

Inspired by the life of Christ, our Presentation Heritage and the Salesian Charism, Nagle College is a Catholic community that welcomes, builds strong relationships, evangelizes and prepares young people for life.

Definitions

Bullying – The national definition of bullying for Australian schools is: Bullying is an ongoing misuse of power in relationships through repeated verbal, physical and/or social behaviour that causes physical and/or psychological harm. It can involve an individual or a group misusing their power over one or more persons.

Bullying can happen in person or online, and it can be obvious (overt) or hidden (covert).
Types

Bullying can be but is not limited to:

· Emotional being unfriendly, excluding, tormenting (e.g. hiding books, threatening gestures)

· Physical pushing, kicking, hitting, punching or any use of violence

· Racist racial taunts, graffiti, gestures

· Sexual unwanted physical contact or sexually abusive comments

· Homophobic because of, or focusing on the issue of sexuality

· Verbal name-calling, sarcasm, spreading rumours, teasing

· Cyber involving the use of digital technology including mobile phones, computers, social media sites, text messages, email, internet chat rooms or posting inappropriate/unkind messages or images on social networking sites. This includes stalking.

Under amendments to the Crimes Act 1958 (Vic) serious bullying constitutes a criminal offence. The legislation amended the crime of stalking to include behaviour that is generally characterized as bullying including: making threats to the victim, using abusive or offensive words in front of the victim, performing abusive or offensive acts in front of the victim or directing abusive or offensive acts towards the victim and would include any behaviour that could reasonably be expected to cause physical or mental harm or arouse apprehension or fear in the victim for his or her own safety or that of any other person.

Harassment is when a person is persistently troubled, tormented, annoyed or persecuted by repeated attacks, questions or problems based on personal attributes such as gender, religious beliefs; disability, race, age or marital status”

Sexual harassment is any unwanted, unwelcome or uninvited behaviour of a sexual nature in relation to another person in circumstances in which a reasonable person, having regard to all the circumstances, would have anticipated the possibility that the person harassed would be humiliated, intimidated or offended. Sexual harassment can take many different forms and may include physical contact, verbal comments, jokes, propositions, the display of offensive material or other behaviour which creates a sexually hostile working environment.

Sexual harassment is not behaviour which is based on mutual attraction, friendship and respect. If the interaction is consensual, welcome and reciprocated it is not sexual harassment.
Staff Members

Members of staff are encouraged to watch for and identify early signs of bullying behaviour and/or distress in students. This could be evident in any aspect of school life. There could be: an unwillingness to attend school, a pattern of headaches or stomach aches, missing equipment, damaged clothing, bruising or a reluctance to participate in activities with particular students.

Classroom teachers should ensure that they manage all incidences of alleged bullying in their classrooms. Classroom teachers should ensure that all incidences are recorded on the student’s Simon Profile and that the relevant House Coordinators are notified.

All instances of bullying, whether they be directly observed by a member of staff or reported by a student to a member of staff, must be reported to the relevant House Coordinator in the first instance for investigation.

The relevant House Coordinator will advise the alleged harasser that there has been an observation / complaint of bullying behaviour and that the matter is being investigated. The House Coordinator will also contact the students’ parents/person with parental responsibility to advise them of the allegation and any action taken.

The House Coordinator will record a copy of the allegation and the outcome of the complaint in the students (both target and alleged harasser) profile on Simon. In managing allegations of bullying the College will follow its designated student management process.

In instances where the allegations constitute a criminal offence the allegations will be referred to the Deputy Principal Pastoral/Principal who may refer the allegations to Victoria Police.

Students

Students should immediately report all incidents of bullying to a staff member. The staff member should place a written record of the allegation of bullying on the students profile on Simon. The student who alleges bullying should complete the official Nagle College Report of Bullying Form. This form is to be submitted to the student’s House Coordinator who will investigate the allegation.

Parents

Parents/persons with parental responsibility are encouraged to report all allegations of bullying made by their child to their child’s Pastoral Teacher or House Coordinator as soon as practicable for investigation.

Confidentiality

Anyone involved in a complaint of bullying or harassment or its investigation should only disclose the circumstances and facts of the complaints to those people who are directly involved in progressing its investigation and resolution.
